A luxury car dealership was working with another remote video monitoring service provider when they suffered over one million dollars in losses after several vehicles were stolen under their watch. As a target of repeat auto theft, the dealership collective opted to end their service agreement with their previous security provider and began implementing BOS Security, Inc.'s VirtuGuard™ remote video monitoring services.

THE INCIDENT:

At approximately 2:42am, the VirtuGuard™ Command Center received an AI-triggered alarm alerting to motion at a luxury auto dealership in Long Beach, California. A black Dodge Charger stopped near the entrance of the parking lot. A male wearing a gray hooded sweatshirt, black pants, and white shoes and a male wearing a black hooded sweatshirt and black pants exited the vehicle and approached a white Jeep truck parked near the sidewalk.

The two suspects entered the vehicle and quickly fled the scene. VirtuGuard™ Agents immediately called the local police department to report the theft and provided details of the suspects, the stolen vehicle, and the direction they drove away in. At 2:58am, police units were observed arriving at the car dealership. Officers called VirtuGuard™ to inform Agents that police apprehended the vehicle, throwing spike strips onto the road to stop the vehicle. However, the two suspects escaped on foot and police were still searching for them. The stolen Jeep truck was recovered and returned to the dealership with minimal damage.
